

Burke County, in Western North Carolina, is technically in the Charlotte DMA, yet Morganton the county seat, is closer to Asheville than Charlotte..Having lived in larger towns before moving here, I have wondered why Burke County was not in the Asheville DMA.

It seems, at the least, that cable and satellite subscribers should have access to stations bordering our area, including but not limited to, Channels 5 and 11 in Bristol and Johnson City, Channel 21 in Greenville (licensed to Asheville), and Channel 62 in Spartanburg, along with Channel 12 in Winston-Salem. Please give consideration to allowing as many stations as possible for cable and satellite subscribers.
